Message from our Director: March

March is in like a lion and out like a lamb. We are looking forward to some warmer temps and longer days! In March we will be having our 2nd In Service Day for the year. During our first In Service this January our staff were able to have a wonderful training, and get some curriculum ready for your kiddo's! March's In Service Day will be on Friday, March 24th. Please save the date for that day, and be ready to use back up care for your kids.

March also brings Dr Seuss Day, or otherwise known as Read Across America. Kids can bring in a book to share with the class that day. They will be kept in the cubbies unless they are being read.

Supporting Your Child's Development. One Step at a Time...

Each quarter our teachers are working on preparing portfolios for the children. The teachers collect samples of the children's work, pictures and observations specific to your child's development. This month the teachers will be working on the children's assessments, a tool that we use to see where your child is at, and set goals for learning. You will be able to see these, and if you would like a copy we can make one for you. However, the document stays in your child's portfolio the duration of their enrollment in the center.

Focus on Fun

In March our curriculum is all about homes, celebrations, traditions and cultures. There are a lot of different cultural celebration in March. If your family is celebrating something special that you would like to share, please let the staff know and we can add it in to our learning. The children will be learning about different types of home environments, share their own traditions and talk about what we like to celebrate. Everyone likes different things so it makes some fun learning. We are also going to have fun on St. Patrick's Day. As hard as we try to keep the pesky little leprechauns away, they seem to still sneak in during outside time and nap time to create a bunch of trouble in the class room!

Play...Teach...Love

Children learn in many ways, and one of them is through play. Have you heard the phrase, “play is a child’s work”? Children learn social skills while playing with other children. We see this happen in our home living area. The children play “family” in which they are figuring out how family works, taking on different roles. Kids learn math in the block area, figuring out how many blocks to make a tower, which shapes can I make, how tall should it be. When children play with sensory materials it is not only soothing, but they are learning math as well, looking at the materials in volumes. It is also a great area for social skills, taking turns and negotiating with friends! Next time you see your child engaged in play you can ask, “What is my child working on learning?” with some observation you can see they learn a lot!

She is busy all day teaching the children and helping them learn a lot of social and self help skills. Ms. Chelsie is loved by all her kids. Let’s wish her a Happy Birthday!
